App Development.

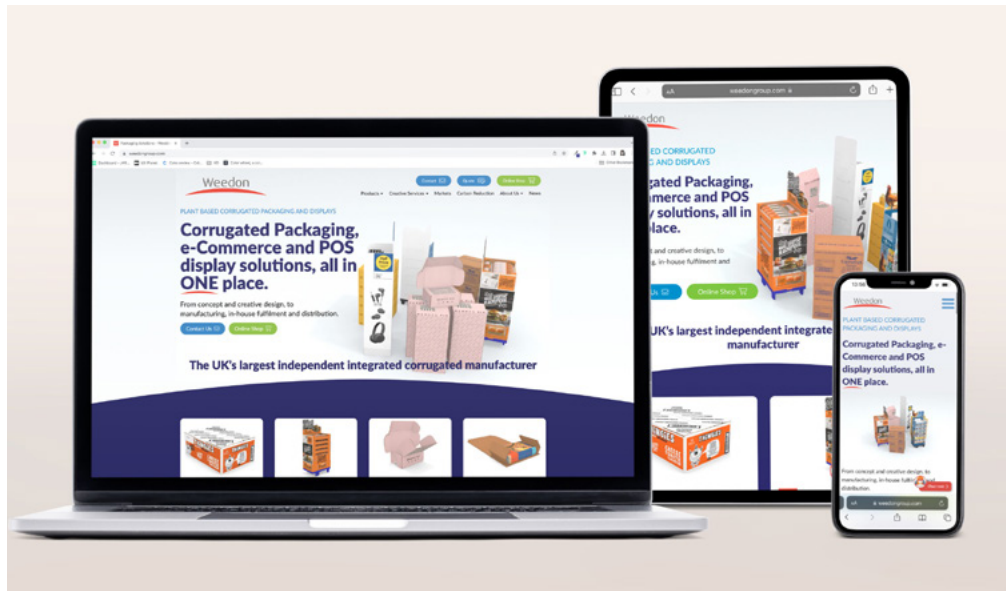

Design, Wireframing, Optimisation, Production, Data Capture, UX, UI...

Here at Eon, we have an experienced team of in-house developers, skilled at putting customers at the heart of what they do. We guide you through the 3 core stages of mobile app production, from concept and app design all the way through to wireframing, app development, and optimisation. We've worked with some of the UK's largest B2B and B2C businesses, finely tuning their ideas into a reliable and robust piece of technology.

Our expertise pans across all major platforms, including iOS and Android, and we have the ability to create bespoke solutions tailored to your strategy. We understand the importance of UX and we aim to create technology that not only uses stunning design, but is also highly functional. Our expertise branches out into the latest innovations in AR and VR usage, as well as the use of 2D and 3D imagery.

Digital Marketing.

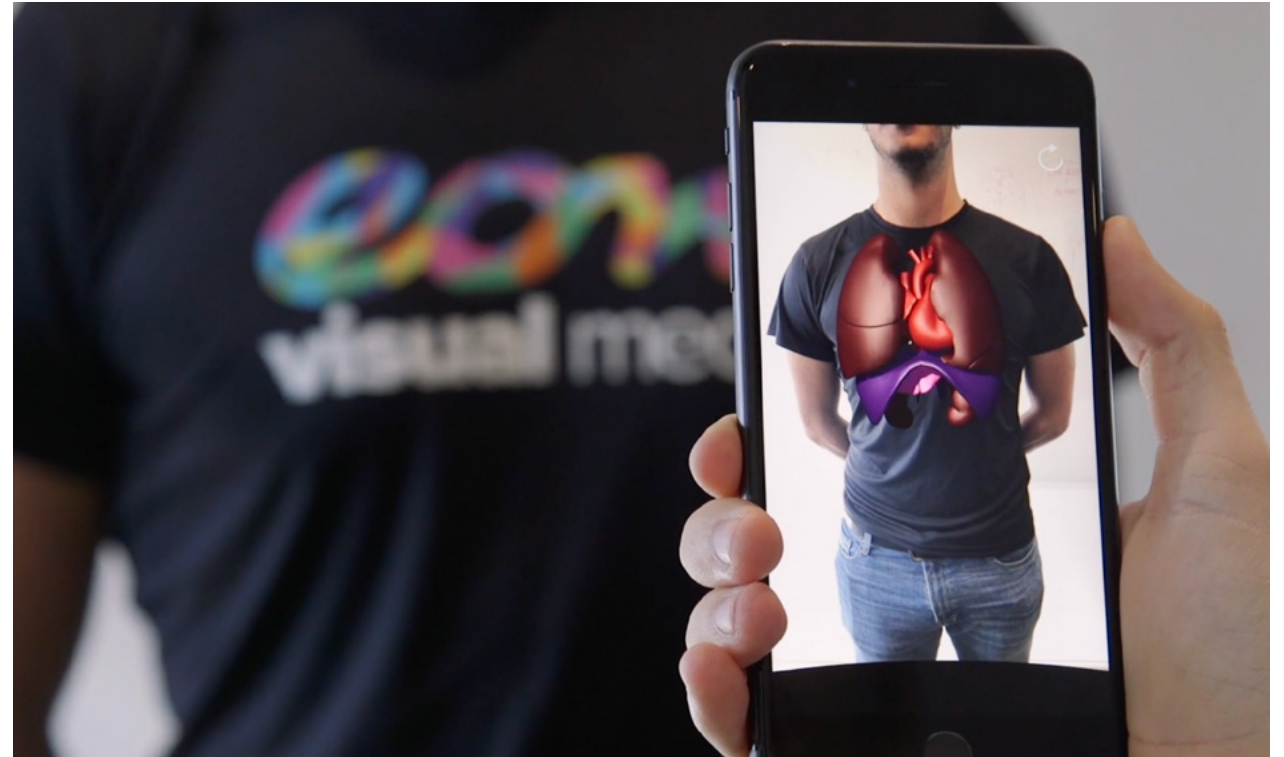

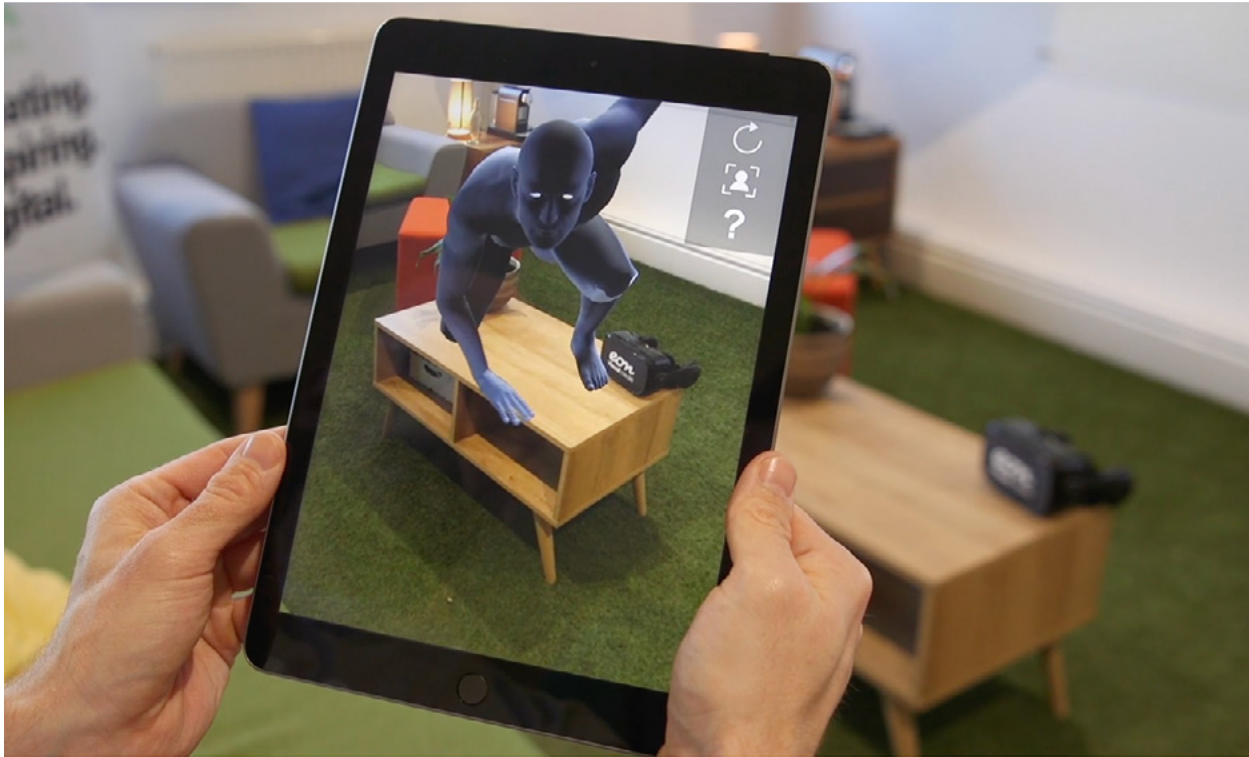

Social Media, SEO, Email Marketing, Strategy, Content, Copywriting...

Behind our Digital Marketing service is a talented team formed by creative and strategic thinkers. Our goal is to help you build a relationship with your audience in order to grow your business. We always begin by immersing ourselves in what you do, and where you want your business to go.

Using our marketing expertise, our team will guide you to success using strategy, social media, SEO and email marketing, working closely with our design team to create robust marketing campaigns that are bespoke to your requirements. Analytics are vital to your success and we will help you to manage your data and optimise your marketing activity accordingly. Whatever your goal is, whether it be to engage your sales team, raise brand awareness, or to drive sales, we have a passion for helping our clients succeed.

AR.

With Augmented Reality, users are given the ability to take mundane experiences and make them extraordinary, taking everyday reality and augmenting the unusual and the spectacular to create a truly immersive experience. We're constantly exploring and experimenting with AR technology, and we love it when a client approaches us with a project that needs our creative flair and technical expertise. We've developed augmented allsorts, everything from a human stomach to sinks, taps, and even buildings.

VR.

We love experimenting with the latest technological advancements, especially in Virtual Reality. This technology allows our clients to create scenarios that would otherwise be impossible to create, engaging customers in a whole new innovative way. We encourage our clients to push the boundaries and find new ways of reaching their audiences, and VR technology enables them to do this in an effective way. Wherever it's too dangerous, expensive or impractical to do something in reality, virtual reality is the answer.

The Metaverse.

Looking to the future is part of who we are. The rise of the Metaverse in recent years has categorised the internet in a single, universal and immersive virtual world accessed primarily through virtual devices. We're really keen to keep exploring this new innovation and see how we can make it work for our clients in a plethora of different sectors and industries.

Got an idea to take your business to the next level in the Metaverse? We'd love to work with you! From meetings, training, games and entertainment, how will the Metaverse work for you?

Holograms.

No this isn't a homage to Star Wars...hologram technology is increasingly being utilised as a tool to visualise information, transforming flat articles into 3D objects. Holograms have proved to be the next step in making digital content more compatible to humans, showcasing objects in 3D, which we previously would have seen in 2D on our smartphones. Here at Eon, our 3D team have created holograms for everything from conferences and presentations, to marketing events and sales shows, helping our clients to expose products to their customers in an enticing and engaging way.

Immersive Video.

Our comprehensive video services encompass 360° video and drone filming, allowing us to transport viewers to destinations beyond the confines of conventional videography. Virtual tours, aerial footage, interactive experiences and point of view (POV) videos are just a few of the endless opportunities available to you with our cutting-edge technology.

360° Video.

The constant advances in video technology continue to inspire our storytelling at Eon. 360° video provides an immersive experience that not only piques curiosity but also cultivates maximum engagement. Empowering users to steer their own expedition, they navigate the virtual landscape at their preferred pace, delving into the most intriguing aspects that resonate with them.

Drone Footage.

Viewers can embark on a cinematic journey with our in-house drone videography. Our pilot can fly to areas that are typically out of reach to all but your imagination. Allow your creative vision to be executed in stunning HD quality without the helicopter price tag. Tell a different story.

Our Pricing.

Our customers are at the forefront of what we do, so here is our daily rate card for you to see if our budgets work.
